1. Controllers

This website is published by Matthew Betancourt, whose full identity and postal address appear in this website's Legal Notice. It is created and hosted using services provided by Singulart SAS as part of the Singulart Studio product.

Depending on the data concerned:

- Matthew Betancourt is the seller: the sale of an artwork is concluded directly between you and them. They are the controller for the data relating to this commercial relationship (content of the contact form, order, purchase history).

- Singulart SAS acts as processor for the website's browsing and audience measurement data (see section 4): Matthew Betancourt remains the controller of this data, Singulart processing it only to provide and secure the website, under the Studio DPA (data processing agreement) concluded with Singulart Studio.
- Stripe processes the payment on behalf of Matthew Betancourt. Stripe also acts as an independent controller for what regulations require of it in its own right, in particular fraud prevention and its anti-money laundering obligations.
- Customer.io routes this website's emails (contact form message, order confirmation) as a processor.

The processing relationship between Matthew Betancourt and Singulart for the data of their visitors and buyers is governed by the Studio DPA (data processing agreement concluded between Matthew Betancourt and Singulart SAS), whose annex lists the relevant sub-processors (see section 5).

2. Data collected

2.1 Contact form

Your name, your email address, the subject and content of your message and, where applicable, the artwork from which you opened the form.

The message is routed by email to Matthew Betancourt through our email delivery provider Customer.io, with your address set as the reply-to address so that Matthew Betancourt can reply to you directly. The message is not stored in the Singulart Studio database. It remains viewable in Customer.io's sending log for the retention period set by that provider, and its subsequent retention is the responsibility of Matthew Betancourt, as recipient of the message.

2.2 Order data

Your name, your email address, your telephone number where applicable, your billing address, your delivery address and the name of the recipient where different from yours, as well as the language in which you ordered.

This information is collected by Stripe at the time of payment, then passed on to Singulart Studio, which records it with the order in order to issue the invoice and enable Matthew Betancourt to perform the sale. Your email address is also passed on to Customer.io to send the order confirmation; Customer.io keeps this address together with the list of artists from whom orders were placed using it, so as to send each person only the messages that concern them.

2.3 Browsing data

For each page viewed, the following are recorded: the address of the page and the date of viewing, the address of the page or site from which you arrived and its domain name, any campaign parameters ("utm") present in the link you followed, an approximate country, your browser language, and the type of browser and device you use.

These page views are grouped by visit, a visit ending after thirty minutes of inactivity, which makes it possible to count visits and measure their duration.

The country is provided by our content delivery network, which infers it from your connection. Your IP address is not recorded in any of this data. None of this information is linked to your identity, passed on to a third party, or used for advertising or profiling purposes.
